In light of the COVID-19 pandemic, Jeddy Ventures LLC DBA SerialComm, EthoSwitch LLC, and Sima S. Enterprises LLC, are privately owned and operated companies sharing the same resources. They are designated as an essential Supply Chain contributor to: government agencies, hospitals, engineering firms, manufacturing plants specializing in medical equipment, and research facilities, and is identified as a member of the national recovery effort to COVID-19 under the U.S. Department of Homeland.

They are deemed essential to critical infrastructure, therefore, will remain open. In addition, all three companies will be taking a diligent approach to assure the safety and health of its employees and its clients by taking the necessary steps listed below.

1. Most employees will be working remotely from home.
2. The companies operate under three separate buildings. One of these buildings will entirely be used for processing and shipping products. ONLY the Shipping Coordinator is allowed inside and will be wearing a mask while working.
3. President, Mordy Naftaly, conducts operations remotely from home and from his private office in a separate secluded building, where he is the only one utilizing it.
4. Only designated personnel are allowed in the buildings and only as required.
5. All employees must adhere to 6 feet social distancing.
6. Employees will wash hands throughout the day especially when handling product.
7. We will not accept any customers inside our buildings.
8. Each building is sanitized at least once daily.
9. Any incoming shipments are isolated and kept at isolation for a 72-hour period.
